COMMERCE CHAMBER TO MEET NEXT WEEK
AND QUIT BUSINESS*"Young Blood" Directors
Will Formally Give Up
Their Jobs.*STARTED OUT WITH FLOURISH

"City Beautiful" Movement First of Scheme Started, But No Industries Were Landed and Interest Lagged; Decides to Disband the Organization.

The Chamber of Commerce board of directors will hold a meeting early next week to hold formal burial services over that body. President S. B. Goldsmith announced today that he would not wait for the annual meeting in December, but would call a special meeting in the near future, when the affairs of the organization will be cleared up and indefinite adjournment taken. The meeting would have been held this afternoon had it not been for the illness of Secretary John M. Robinson.

This action has been contemplated for some time and a majority of the present board of directors have expressed themselves as favorable to it. Last year about this time the same idea entered the heads of the board of directors, but at a meeting of the entire membership, or the part of it that was sufficiently interested to attend, it was decided to continue under a different system, entrusting the affairs of the chamber to a smaller board of directors, who came to be known as the "young bloods."

They were supposed to proceed on more aggressive lines than their more conservative predecessors. Filled with enthusiasm, the new directors started out by firing the 1125 a month secretary and hiring John M. Robinson at a nominal wage of $25 a month to do the work of his predecessor.

It was to be the understanding that he was to do only the work of his predecessor. A lot of propositions were considered, a plan to make the city more beautiful was started, but the board found itself facing the formidable proposition of having no money to carry out its plans.

In the meantime, the secretary's salary of $25 a month is being paid, the chamber is still employed, and the room on the fifth floor of the First National Bank Building is retained in the name of the Chamber of Commerce, though it has not been used once in several months. All of this is ending up the measure funds of the chamber and no results are being secured.

President Goldsmith declares that he would have called a meeting to put up the proposition to the board members, but for the fact that Secretary Robinson had been so ill that he could not attend. He had several propositions under consideration that looked good to him.

SEVENTEEN FACE MAYOR; TWO GIRLS GO TO JAIL

He Sends Pair Up For Street Walking; Busy Session of Police Court.

Seventeen prisoners faced Mayor Matetta in police court this morning for offenses ranging from drunkenness to street walking.

For street walking and disorderly conduct, Myrtle Cover and Mary Adams were committed to the county jail for 30 days. They were arrested in an alley in Seventh street by Patrolmen Murphy and McDonald at 9:15 o'clock last night after quite a chase. They were first locked up in the West Side cell room where they smashed every window pane and broke up everything else of a breakable nature in the place. After that they were brought to the city hall after an eventual trip, it requiring three officers to bring them over.

"I suppose I'll have to give you girls 30 days to jail to straighten you up," declared the mayor when they were arraigned before him.

"No 30 days will ever straighten me up," shouted Miss Moon as she was led away. Joseph Dally and John Murphy, arrested for drunkenness, were committed to the cells for 10 days. The latter was discharged yesterday morning when arraigned on a similar charge.

Five men arrested as suspicious characters in the lumber yards on South Arch street will be held until evening.

Len Helms, 44, charged with disorderly conduct at home by his wife, was committed to jail for 30 days.

DIVORCE CASE HELD UP

Snowbound School Teacher Has Husband's Action Delayed.

Proceedings to secure a divorce on grounds of desertion were held up by Judge VanSwearingen yesterday in the case in which David Kaiser sought to be freed from Mrs. Annie N. Kaiser of Jefferson Island, Montana.

Kaiser was brought back from Potter county about a year ago by Constable J. W. Mitchell to answer a charge of bigamy preferred by Mrs. Loudermilk, of Great Falls, who charged that he had married her daughter while working in California without bothering to secure a divorce from Mrs. Kaiser No. 1. He was found guilty and sentenced to a year in jail, but later paroled. He then began proceedings for a divorce.

In the meantime Mrs. Kaiser, with her son, is living in Montana where she is teaching school. Shows in the mountain districts prevented her from getting to the Jefferson Island post-office, but a week ago when she finally got back, she got word of her husband's petition for a divorce. She immediately wrote to Attorney P. E. Youngkin to delay the proceedings until she could come east. This was done by court yesterday, and Mrs. Kaiser will arrive here about Christmas time to fight the suit.

SCOTTDALE

Special to The Courier.
SCOTTDALE, Nov. 5.—The annual "Farmers' Window" at Fisher & Graft's store is better than ever this year, and attracting a great deal of attention. The principal point of interest is the big corn show by Ray Musgrave on the Henry Love farm, near West Chapel. The big bird was studied by Mr. Musgrave and perched in the window. Above it sat a hen's nest, as large as a basket, which was secured by Thomas M. Gallentine, one of the employees of the store, out on the old Henry Love farm, near Meadon, now occupied by Austin Pool. There were some exciting times around the store when the farmers got worried up out of their corn show.

The collection of Edward Workman's improved 60-day yellow dent corn caused some of the other corn growers to come forward. Mr. Workman wants all of them to put their corn into the Pennsylvania corn show and have experts pass on the corn, and this will probably be done. The background of the window is formed of corn stalks and ears of corn hanging on them, grown by Joseph Miller of Hawkeye, who also has some other ears of his corn shown. Walter Wilhelm of Mount Noto is there with some big ears of corn, the longest ear measuring 19 1/2 inches. It is said that a dozen red ears, but the kind to find at an old-fashioned bucking bee, when the finder has the privilege to kiss the girl he thought the prettiest, were brought in by Walter Wilhelm. C. H. Smith also contributed some good looking corn, as did C. B. Patton of the Overholt farm.

Top corn is well represented by displays grown by James Blackburn, Young Craft, J. M. Stover and Lester Hixson, with red pop corn grown by Austin Pool.

J. L. Craft is represented by some monster kernels and cow heads. Harry Polzer, the near town gardener, came forward with a 12 pound head of cabbage, and some big York potatoes. James Blackburn, a schoolboy of town, has some big red beets. Charles L. Craft some sugar cane and John Reed some brown corn. Altogether the window is a very interesting one.

PERSONALS

There will be a festival at the Grandview Church on Saturday evening for the benefit of the church. Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hahn, II, Hahn and Mrs. William Stiel of Perryopolis have returned home after a visit with Mrs. Sadie Hunt.

FOOTBALL GAME

The Scottsdale High School football team will have for the visiting eleven on Saturday the Clinton High School boys. The game will start at 2:30 at Ellsworth Park, and like the previous Saturday it is expected another big crowd will be out. When last he was here a week ago the visitors scored 14 points with 7 to 6 score, but Scottsdale expects to trim Clinton tomorrow.

DANGER OF NOSEBLEED

S. M. Beatty, foreman of the Independent, who was taken ill with a severe and dangerous nosebleed, recovered on Tuesday morning, which required three treatments by physicians before it was stopped, but another attack yesterday. Mr. Beatty was able to be out a little, but was very weak.

THE TROUBLED TIMES.

There is still far from troubled Europe. The war grows in volume and ferocity. The armies of human life go on it not recklessly at least. The struggle between the military armies of the contending nations continues. Nations, bluffs, battles. First impressions were that the war would not last very long because of its enormous cost, and the almost human impossibility of large bodies of men long withstanding the rain of death showered upon them by modern engines of military destruction, but the cost of warfare has been provided, and while the loss of life on the field has been appalling, greater than ever known in modern times, it has been relatively small compared with the immense numbers of men engaged in conflict, and as the war goes steadily on with no immediate prospect of termination, but of every prospect of continuing through the winter.

The effects of the war upon the United States have been and will be varied, but upon the whole they count. They should profit from conditions abroad. The war nations need our foodstuffs now and they will need them when the war is over. Our wheat and corn and cattle must help to feed them for they starve, and under such conditions prices must be liberal. These prices, however, will be reflected in the home markets, and will add to the already high cost of living in the late campaign, the Democrats expect the failure of the food tariff on the ground that the business depression was due to the European war, but the depression arrived here, and it caused are well understood. The opening of the war paralyzed for a time export trade and commercial exchanges, and this added to American business depression. Among other things it caused the closing of the stock exchanges, which remained closed still because our buyers fear the results of the enormous selling movement sure to follow the dumping of practically all our European-held securities on the market for liquidation. But export trade was gradually restored to normal conditions, and recovery of exchange value provided against present necessities, so that our export movement has finally begun. It is reported that the farmers for October are very gratifying, and that they are harvesting a nation's much like an individual. When it has sufficient for its needs and a surplus to sell it is prosperous. When it buys more than it sells it is not prosperous. In August our imports exceeded our exports by many millions, in October the balance of trade has been reduced to our favor.

These conditions are encouraging to trade as well as strengthening to finances. They must soon reflect themselves upon the business situation regardless of other considerations. However, other considerations are in a fair way to early improvement. It is believed that the war on the business is over, and that the backbone of the confidence will be restored. This will bring more confidence, and such confidence always benefits business. It is believed that the financial situation is well secured, not only by legislation, but also by our position in commerce. The home market is in a fair way to recovery, but it is about to be tested, and there is every confidence that it will work out satisfactorily.

This week trade seems to be directed toward the home market. The business generally is optimistically inclined. These things, however, will take upward movement with the opening of the new year, and while there seems to be no real basis for that theory, it is very reasonable with help to make it a fact. A better price movement is needed for in December, the Conneltsville coal region is running less than half capacity, but it has reason to hope for better things with the coming year.

BARRETT'S CHARACTERISTICS.

The Barrett organs affect to be amazed and astonished over the fact that Senator Crow's majority is only 1,441 in the county. A change of 100 votes, they tell each other, would have defeated their arch enemy. So it would.

But if we remember correctly, the Barrett organs told us persistently and emphatically from the very day of Herndon's nomination that he would have a majority of 100 under an accurate vote not only ridiculous but impossible as well.

In fact, the Barrett organs heralded it widely that General Herndon would sweep the county and leave not a Crow's feather in it. We were given to understand that "the odds" against Crow in Pennsylvania could be likened by Herndon with his left hand and by Herndon, the high and holy, with both hands behind his back. There were times when we wondered why Senator Crow didn't withdraw, or why the election was held at all, if public sentiment was so unanimous and unanimous as the Barrett organs represented it to be.

However, this is not the only thing the Barrett organs misrepresented during the campaign. If they told the truth at all, it was only when it was unbecomingly or when it happened to serve their purposes but as well, and in the latter case they perhaps often boasted so firm in the grip of habit.

As to Senator Crow's majority, it might be well to remember that it is a majority over all. His opponent was an attorney every other known opposition.

While he gave out no predictions, to his close personal and political friends, a few days before the election, Senator Crow estimated his plurality over Herndon at 1,500. Take the balance of his political estimation, it was substantially correct.

The Phantom were after all a phantom team.

The Phantom were after all a phantom team.

The Phantom were after all a phantom team.

The Scottish water company has been directed by the state authorities to comply with the provisions of its contract requiring it to furnish a supply of pure water for domestic use. What some of the Conneltsville consumers need is a meter that will measure muddy and impure water.

The hunting season is on. The hunters are inured, but the woods are not.

David Morgan Herndon says this campaign has been one of real education. Under the tutelage of the Barrett boys it undoubtedly would be something of a revelation to Uncle Dave.

"Good" is what the Democrats used to call it.

The Official Organs of the Barrett boys have commenced to read Democrats out of the party. That's a good way to get them out. They have a habit of coming back in the most unexpected manner, however.

The Barrett Organs are talking about the Probe. It's a two-edged knife.

When the New Freedom can't beat a man at the polls, it tries to puncture him with the probe and another man with a Democratic majority at Washington. Lay on, the Mitchellicks.

The election is over, but there are a few plain and fancy bars left.

The Democrats appeared in divorce court this week. They just couldn't keep step.

The closing of the Chicago stock yards won't boom the prices of meat half so much as the European demand.

The blinding electric headlights on the trolley cars are to be handed the lion.

The Bible Conference will be interesting and instructive as well as religious and moral.

The Barrett organs are shouting fraud. So to us we have heard that what they say is false. It's about all the Ave ever has to say.

Denise pretty nearly carried the state over all opposition.

The Hill House organ has been so closely associated with Barrett journalism that it has absorbed its methods and some of its manners. It no longer thinks it necessary to be accurate, especially if it is inconvenient to do so.

The Conneltsville Record says the Democrats have gained five or six senators. When?

Some of the senatorial contests are remarkably close.

Turkey has inaugurated a holy war. Its morals can't be much worse than the highly war waged by certain better-than-thou politicians in this campaign.

SWITZERLAND.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swiss."

Switzerland, which has stood successfully on the side lines during 100 years of war, is a national road garden 15,000 square miles in size and populated by 7,000,000 people, half of whom hang onto the country with one hand while they farm with the other.

Switzerland is the world's oldest republic. It has governed itself without the aid of kings, dukes or other expensive ornaments for more than 500 years. In all this time it has remained peaceful and has only accumulated a debt of about $20,000,000. However, Switzerland has not been able to support a large standing army during all these years. She has often been attacked, but by the time the enemy had climbed over the country for a few days it is usually too dizzy to fight with any success.

Switzerland is a beautiful scene of preservation and tastefully landscaped. It has the grandest scenery in Europe and makes it pay handsome dividends. Mountains and tourists. Switzerland's only great natural resource, and she doesn't waste it. She makes the mountains streams run her factories and makes the tourists pay most of her living expenses. The present war has hit Switzerland harder than any other country because it has entirely cut off the supply of tourists. This is a great calamity. In good years, after a rich tourist has passed through a small Swiss village the visible supply of money is increased 200 per cent.

Switzerland was first heard of 100 years ago, when the Romans defeated the original native-born Swiss. Later on Hannibal crossed the Alps in Rome, being the first tourist to visit the country. For many centuries the French and Germans and Austrians fought over the region and subdivided it to suit themselves, but in 1307 three Swiss citizens tired of this foolishness and declared their independence. About three years later they eventually licked the Austrians, and from that time have run their own affairs very successfully, except during Napoleon's career, when he conquered the republic and also walked all over it while trying to get at the enemy.

Switzerland has the initiative and referendum and government ownership of railroads. Neither has proven fatal to the inhabitants. It is composed of 26 cantons, ranging in size from an eight-acre plot to 2,000 square miles, and divided from each other by 10,000 foot boundary walls, decorated with glaciers. Four languages are spoken in Switzerland, but those tourists who do not talk French, German, Italian or Latin can hold on in American dollars and make themselves very well understood.
